

Amitabh Bachchan says he has taken organ donation pledge

Amitabh Bachchan recently revealed that he is a pledged organ donor and wore the ribbon of its sanctity. He shared a picture in which he is seen wearing a green ribbon on his suit.

Sulabha Torkham, Mumbai, September 30, 2020

Amitabh Bachchan revealed that he has pledged to be an organ donor.

Amitabh Bachchan recently shared a picture of himself where he is seen donning a green ribbon on his suit. Along with the picture, he revealed that he has pledged to donate his organs. He shared this photo of himself on social media along with the reason behind him sporting the green ribbon.

Amitabh Bachchan wrote, “T 3675 - I am a pledged ORGAN DONOR .. I wear the green ribbon of its sanctity !! (sic).”

Check it out:

He also posted another tweet where he wrote, “T 3674/5 - ... in fulfilment of ancestors.. in the remembrance of them that lived in time , to give us this today .. honour for them done .. may their blessings be with us ever .. NO .. the deed be not ever disclosed .. they that know , shall ever know .. (sic).”

On September 28, the actor had shared on his blog about shooting a Karamveer special episode for Kaun Banega Crorepati, in which he is the host. The picture seems to be from the same episode where he sported the green ribbon. Talking about its significance, he had written, “the green ribbon is the acceptance of the fact that we are organ donors and if there be no money’s left with harry and sally .. then the desire to overcome becomes excitable.”